NOTE FROM THE PASTOR

Dear Parishioners,

African Cardinal Robert Sarah was asked “How does one keep silence in the face of injustice? How can one not cry out in incomprehension and rebellion? Cardinal Sarah answered:

“In trying to control everything and to place everything under the banner of rebellion, a man runs the risk of leaving nothing up to God. He finds himself alone, faced with his own limits and helplessness. What is God’s instruction? In the parable of the good grain and the chaff (Matthew 13:24-30), Christ invites us to let the wheat and the weeds grow until the hour of the harvest. Then the time will come when evil will be destroyed by good. Persevering patience, supported by Providence, is an ally in all our daily battles. The combat against evil plays out over time, and it is important to persevere and not to lose hope. God is fashioning hearts, and evil never has the last word. In the darkest night, God works in silence. We have to enter into God’s time and into this great silence that is a silence of love, trust, and active abandonment. Let us never forget that silent prayer is the strongest and surest act in the struggle against evil.” [The Power of Silence: Against the Dictatorship of Noise, by Robert Cardinal Sarah (2017).]

The Cardinal’s sentiments are in line with the wisdom of the Saints, who tell us that prayer is central to the mystery of human suffering because God’s response to human suffering does not consist in formulae of explanation, but rather sharing in our suffering through the Cross. Now prayer is not so powerful as to perfectly comprehend and encapsulate the mystery of suffering, but it generates the contours of receptivity so that we can receive illumination and begin to understand and, more importantly, to accept, in silence, like Mary did at the foot of the Cross.

St. John Vianney speaks of prayer in one of his sermons. It is quoted in the Divine Office of Readings for August 4, his feast day. The Saint says:

“See, my children, a Christian’s treasure is not on earth, it is in Heaven. Well, then! Our thoughts must go where our treasure is. Man has a fine function: to pray and to love. You pray, you love: that is man’s happiness on earth! Prayer is nothing other than a union with God. When your heart is pure and united with God, you feel within yourself a balm, a sweetness that is inebriating, a light that is dazzling. In this intimate union, God and the soul are like two pieces of wax that have melted together: you can no longer separate them. It is a very beautiful thing, this union of God with His little creature. It is an incomprehensible blessing. We have not deserved to pray, but God, in His goodness, has allowed us to speak to him. Our prayer is like incense that He receives with the utmost pleasure. My children, you have a little heart, but prayer enlarges it and makes it capable of loving God. . . . Prayer is a foretaste of Heaven, a stream flowing from Paradise. It never leaves us without sweetness. It is a kind of honey that sinks into the soul and sweetens everything. Troubles melt away in the presence of prayer that is made well, like snow before the sun.”

God bless you!

Father Eric
